

What's new from

FortiWiFi-60

Fortinet has unveiled the FortiWiFi-60 wireless antivirus firewall. It combines an integrated 802.11b and 802.11g WLAN access point with a suite of antivirus, firewall, VPN, and intrusion detection and prevention services. Even with encryption technologies in place, wireless networks remain vulnerable to content-based threats, according to the company. Existing anti-virus, firewall and content screening applications at the edge of the wired network overlook the fact that wireless access originates within the LAN, the company claims. Australian distributors include Lan 1 and Dovetail Distribution. RRP: $2500

www.fortinet.com