

Fortinet Announces Fortimail-2000 in 15th Jan'06

Fortinet Announces FortiMail-2000

Fortinet has expanded and enhanced its FortiMail secure messaging appliances with the announcement of FortiMail-2000, a new secure messaging appliance targeted at very large enterprises, universities and managed security service providers (MSSPs). It also unveiled FortiMail 2.2, a major new firmware release for its FortiMail systems.

According to Fortinet, its mail systems are purpose-built secure messaging appliances that offer anti-spam defense-in-depth at the network perimeter and the mail server. "The systems include an antivirus detection engine for virus and spyware protection and complete email scanning. They seamlessly integrate with Fortinet's award-winning FortiGate security appliances and FortiGuard Antispam Service, which provides automatic updates to both FortiGate and FortiMail systems to reduce "obvious spam" at the network perimeter," the company said in a statement.

PRO