

FORTINET JOINS MICROSOFT VIRUS REPOSITORY

Network security provider, Fortinet, has joined the Microsoft Virus Information Alliance, an online repository housing information of the latest virus threats affecting Microsoft's platforms.

Fortinet hopes to gain agility with this move, by having quicker access to threat information so that it can deliver patches to its clients.

In return, its contribution to the repository is aimed at informing other participating vendors of threats that it has discovered.